Kay McCracken • A Raven in My Heart

~ Kay ~

Kay McCracken longs for a path with heart. In her literary memoir, Kay leaves Vancouver, searching for a slower pace in what appears to be a laid back, small B.C. town. She decides on bookseller as the ideal job and leaps headlong into her new life. How could she have known what surprises awaited her...

What people have said about A Raven in My Heart:

“A Raven in My Heart is a powerful memoir and a great read as well, with style as smooth and attractive as a baby’s behind”.

“You have a wonderful way of synthesizing all that (the books and the teachings), and also a very lyrical way of writing about nature and capturing views and feelings and moments one can recognize as having had out in the woods or in nature, but which seem impossible to put into words”.

*Margo Lamont, Vancouver, B.C.
Board of Directors, Federation of BC Writers.*

“I read it in one sitting... what does that tell you! Wonderful work”.

*Kathleen Flaherty, Vancouver, B.C.
CBC Radio Producer*

“I just want to tell you how much I enjoyed reading your book. There was so much I found congenial.”

Theresa Kishkan, a writer living on the Sechelt Peninsula.

“I stayed up far too late last night caught up with the telling of your intriguing journey! My oldest son gave me your book for Christmas and I am very grateful.”

Cherie Greenwood, Victoria, BC.
